

Bureau of Health Workforce Loan Repayment Programs for Nurses

Nurse practitioners who are dedicated to working in communities with limited access to health care can reduce their educational debt through the National Health Service Corps (NHSC) Loan Repayment Program or the NURSE Corps Loan Repayment Program (LRP). Administered by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, Health Resources and Services Administration, these programs support nurse practitioners who are dedicated to working in health care facilities with a critical shortage of nurses. Both programs award loan repayment to nurse practitioners who agree to work in urban, rural, and frontier communities with limited access to care throughout the United States in exchange for a commitment to serve at a site for a minimum of two years. Nurse practitioners may be eligible to apply to both programs but are only permitted to accept loan repayment from one.

What are the similarities—and differences—between the programs? Take a look.
